FOR THE CURE OF Dysentery, Diarrhæs, and Summer Complaint. In presenting this justly celebrated Medicine to the public, we make no rash assertions of its efficacy, nor is any hope held out to the afflicted which facts do not warrant. This remedy having been for years used in this place, for the cure of the above diseases, and those appertaining to the same class, the Proprietor has been induced to offer it on a more extensive scale, with a view to lessen the amount of human suffering. I have never known it to fail when the directions have been strictly adhered to. Many useless nostrums have been palmed upon the public, and I hesitated for some time, until thoroughly convinced of its efficacy. Extract of a letter received from S. J. Carroll:

people suppose are made in England: "The manufacture of many articles of hardware has lately been introduced into this country and firmly established. This has, in fact, been constantly going on for many years. Forty years ago not more than half a dozen leading articles of the trade were of our own manufacture, the rest were all imported; now, by far the greater part of the trade is in articles made by our own artisans. The imported articles, too, are, one after another, yielding the palm of superiority to those of American manufacture. American enterprise, machinery, skill, and ingenuity are more than a match for European fogy-

The English manufacturers aim at producing a cheap article, strong enough to avoid being blown to pieces by the wind; the American manufacturers aim at producing, and in nine cases out of ten, succeed in producing an article as cheap as that imported, and posessing at the same time, the qualities of simplicity strength, and durability. This is especially the case with regard to light articles, such as door latches, locks, &c. Many of our heavy articles are unapproachable by the English imported goods. For instance our Eagle anvil, with its cast-steel face, is firmer and more durable than the English avil, of wrought iron. The American chain vice is an improve ment unknown there. The augers made here are far in advance of the English ideas of progress, and so of many other articles. Five years ago masons' trowels were all imported; now $30,000 worth of trowels, confessedly superior to the English, are made by one manufacturer-Mr. Bisbee, in South Canton-and his business doubles annually. Even the celebrated Congress penknives are now reproduced by our own workmen with all the elegance and excellence of the English knife, and we might extend the list indefinitely. Again, the American goods are generally warranted, an advantage not possessed in our home market by those which are imported. The exportation of American hardware has sprung up, almost entirely within the last few years, and is rapidly becoming a very extensive business. Already have American goods found their way into America, and to all parts of the world.

A dreadful riot is reported to have taken place at Adairsville, Cass county, Ga., last Saturday night week. The Atlanta Republican states that James Blackwell, the Marshal, was shot and instantly killed; Deputy Marshal Hillburn, was severely cut on the head; Samuel Dobbs, freight engineer on the railroad, was shot in the forehead, but the ball fortunately glanced, and five balls were lodged in the body of Mr. Ely, a fireman, who is thought to be fatally wounded. The Republican does not give the particulars respecting the riot, but says that several persons connected with the transaction are in custody, from which we infer that the fight commenced among the employees on the railroad.

"Ah," said Geoffrey, with one of his genial light-ings-up of the face still handsome, "that was owing to the mere chance of Moore's having been with me one morning, when I went into Nugee's. And have often thought of it since, by the way, as a curious instance of the bringing together of opposite classes in England, We were strolling down St James street, and Moore just stepped in with me while I ordered a coat. Seeing that Nugee did not know him, I stepped between the two, and said. Really, gentlemen, two such very distinguished men ought to know each other! Mr. Nugee, this is Mr. Thomas Moore-Mr. Moore, Mr. Nugee! An Awful Tragedy. It has never before fallen to our lot to record a more melancholy occurrence, than the one which we are now called upon to publish. On monday evening last, as two young men, James Wilson, son of Joseph done with dead letters. Their existence might be prolonged. It would surely be better for the governof Mrs. Mary Taylor, wife of Nathan Taylor, Esq., ment to issue a great yearly sheet all over the land, of this town, were returning from the Rock Springs advertising them, which might cost them a fraction | Camp Meeting, in Lincoln County, about 28 or 30 of a cent per letter, than lose the postage, which is miles from Charlotte, a slight difficulty sprung up sunk forever, when they are burned. Seriously, we think on an altercation ensued, which resulted in Clayland's slapping Wilson's jaws. This occurred near the Western Plank Road toll gate, a short distance from town, and Wilson remarked to Clayland that he would see him again in town; the latter responding that he could be found about the streets during the evening. Wilson then left the company, and arrived in town about fifteen minutes in advance of Clayland and the rest of the party who were with them. As soon as he arrived in town, he made inquiry of several of his friends for a pistol, and finally succeeded in finding his own, in his carpet bag, in the billiard room immediately over the grocery of Douglas axes are sold even in London. Why, the thought makes us look upon our Bryan & Thompson, one of his friends having brought his carpet bag from the Camp Meeting for him. Thus armed, he stepped down into the grocery, where he found Clayland, and walked up to him, and told him that he had slapped his jaws, and he intended to kill him for it. Clayland, not thinking that he was serious, pushed him away, and remarked, in a jocular manner, that he had nothing against him, and wanted nothing to do with him. Wilson then drew his pistol and presented it. Clayland caught his hand, and held it up, repeating the same remark. He then let go, and attempted to step behind a screen standing near by, when he received the ball of the pistol in the left side, about two and a half inches below the breast. Clayland made a step or two, fell to his knees, and remarked to Wilson that he had killed him.-Wilson answered with some slight remark, threw down his pistol, mounted his horse, and made his escape Westward. He was pursued by the Sheriff and others, but night coming on very soon, no traces could be heard of him, and his pursuers returned a little before midnight and renewed their pursuits early the next morning, but at this writing nothing is known of his whereabouts. Clayland was taken to his mother's room at Maj Kerr's Hotel, where he has received every attention from our best physicians, his many friends, and his heart broken mother, but no hope is indulged for his recovery. The range of the ball could not be traced with a probe, but it is supposed to have passed near the heart, and lodged in the lungs or thorax.

As soon as Mr. Deavers been stated anywhere, what we believe to be the opened the door. I experienced a chilly draught of air, so much so, that I concluded to satisfy my curiosity by seeing, instead of walking therein. A fly put in there survives but a short time. Snakes are eldom, (if ever,) seen on this mountain, and not a fly was to be seen the day I was there, it being by far too cold a climate for its tiny texture. From the dairy we went to the spring, and if I ever slaked my thirst with a tumbler of purest ice water, I did it from this gurgling spring, issuing from a mountain of ice. Mr. Deavers had forgotten the temperature of the spring, but said that of the dairy was too degrees colder.

The ice extends some 60 rods along the base and four or five in height, forming the shape of a half moon in the mountain. As you walk over any portion of this icy region, you can readily discern the coldness to your feet, and by placing your hand in any of the erevices, you would surmise the member was in the frozen regions of Greenland-showing that the snow and rain have congealed and remain embedded among this immense quantity of stone which acts more powerfully than the best constructed refrigerator.

I verily believe if some enterprising capitalists would purchase and construct suitable accommodations, this ice mountain would in a short time become a noted place of resort. REVIEW OF THE WILMINGTON MARKET, last week's quotation up to Wednesday, when it went up 10 cents on virgin and yellow dip. The receipts have been lighter than for several weeks past, and have been principally confined to small parcels. The sales foot up only 1,589 bbls., as of which he warrants to be of the best material and work

Yellow dip. Hard. Friday. Saturday 3 30 3 30. Tuesday 880.. 3 40...... 3 40. .. 112.. 3 40..... 3 40. Thursday ...

The market this morning is firm at above price, with a fair demand from shippers, and none now offering. SPIRITS TURPENTINE-There has been considerable anima tion in this article during the week ended this morning, and the price has gone up fully 5 cents p gallon on last week's quotation. The sales for the week reach 3,462 bbls., as follows: 50 bbls. at 45 cents @ gallon. Thursday Friday Saturday 122 "47½@48 1,135 • " 50 Tuesday..... Wednesday... 180 "Thursday....1,100 " 50 "

There is more activity in the market this morning, and the article is in demand at 50 cents # gallon. The supply offering is very light, and some sellers are asking a higher price.

TAR-Has been brought in very slowly for the week ended this morning, the receipts comprising only three small parcels, (137 bbls.) which changed hands at $3 121 @ $3 20 $ bbl. There are several buyers in market, and parcels would sell readily at our highest figure. 50 bbls., in shipping order, sold on Tuesday at $3 50 79 bbl. Coffee-Of all descriptions remains in fair supply, and prices are without change. Sales from store in the small way at our quotations. See table. Corron-One or two small parcels received since our last. and we notice sales for the week of only 75 bales, at 83 cents for low middling, and 94 cents & 1b. for middling fair. There is some demand from buyers, and these qualities sell readily at above figures. CORN MEAL-We note a fair supply of this article on market, with a limited demand, and prices have declined 5 cents. Small sales from store during the week at $1 79 bushel.

EMPTY BARRELS-In Spirits Turpentine barrels we have little or no alteration to notice in prices, and the sales for the week have been small. We quote at $2 15@$2 25 for second

LIVERPOOL, Aug. 5.—Cotton.—There has been a fair demand for cotton during the greater part of the week, particularly the last three days, but it has been met so freely that buyers on the whole have rather had the advantage—quotations, however, are rather unchanged. The sales of the week are 53,240 bales, of which 10,290 were taken for speculation and expert. Sales of Friday 7,000 hales. had awakened the feelings of his hearers; and the changed: fair Orleans 6½; middling 5 5-16; fair Uplands 6½; Breadstuffs-The weather has been showery and ungenial

-the crops have made but little progress towards maturity. The market had been active all the week, and closed very firmly at an advance since last week of 2s on Flour, and 6d on Corn.
